AODA LAWS

WAY FINDING SIGNAGE

Improved accessibility of buildings is becoming more urgent in Ontario where 1.85 million Ontarians (15%) are living with disabilities.

The AODA (Accessibility for Ontarians with Disability Act) was passed in 2005, and standards are already being phased in.

Is your business or facility accessible?

10% of all sales of braille signage is donated back to the CNIB (Canadian National Institute for the Blind) by INPS.

Remember any new builds or extensive renovations or updates should include braille signage.
